Fast, Accurate Sterility Testing

Industry regulations and current Good Manufacturing Practices (cGMP) require sterility testing on any product intended to be sterile, such as medical devices, injectables, cosmetics, ophthalmic solutions, and more. Sterility testing is critical to your product-development process and ensures products are free of viable microorganisms and safe for consumer application. Certified Laboratories follows industry best practices and tests in an ISO-certified class-5 environment for accurate, trustworthy results. What's more, we are an Amazon-approved TIC (testing, inspection, and certification organization) for ophthalmic and skin-brightening products.
